

FAQ

- What is the age requirement? You must be at least 5 years old by June 26th to play
- What is the difference between Beginner and Advanced T-Ball? The Beginners don't keep outs, they hit through the lineup, take a base, and then switch. The Advanced level will keep track of outs, attempt to hit a pitched ball by the coach before bringing out the batting-T, and generally will be more experienced players.
- How do I decide if my 6 year old should play at the Advanced level? I recommend 6 year olds playing at the Advanced level if they have played Beginner T-Ball in the past and have a good understanding of the game. The Advanced level players are gearing up to play in Little League.
- What if my child is 7 years old, but hasn't played T-ball before? They will still be placed in the Advanced level. The leap from Beginner to Advanced T-Ball isn't that far and it will be better for them to play with kids their own age. T-Ball is a great starter sport. Everyone is learning in our league and sharpening their skills while learning the value of being a part of a team.
- Do you keep score? No. We don't keep score at Beginner or Advanced T-Ball. The kids are here to learn and have fun first.
- How do I know if a game has been canceled due to inclement weather? Check your email Saturday morning and check our website's Important News box www.bagcoz.org
- Is there any equipment I need to purchase? Your child will need his/her own mitt. Baseball pants and shoes with cleats are not required and a lot of kids at this age just prefer to wear shorts and their own shoes anyway. We will supply hats, jerseys, balls, bats, practice bases, and helmets.
